Automatically creates and manages proxy connections so you are always browsing the Internet through several proxy computers at the same time. This program allows you to access the Internet from a secure computer so that your real IP address is concealed from everyone on the Internet. Ufasoft SocksChain Main Features: Create and manage proxy connections for several browsers SocksChain automatically detects the browser installed on your computer and routes traffic through several proxy computers allowing you to browse the Internet from a secure computer so that your real IP address is concealed from everyone on the Internet. Single connection mode and automatic connection setup Set up a single connection for Internet browsing only or for Internet and email access. This mode allows you to browse the Internet from a secure computer, hide your real location and use the computer without worrying about the physical data from another user. Full screen option With the full screen option enabled, SocksChain creates a full screen window allowing you to browse the Internet, hide your real IP address and access instant messaging or email programs without the main window of the program occupying your desktop. Automatic proxy settings for all programs SocksChain enables you to direct traffic through several proxy computers from the Internet Explorer so you can connect to the Internet from another location and use your computer with a secured location. You can use the Internet without opening a browser. You can use a normal proxy settings or use the automatic settings. The normal settings are: Use the host list to select the proxy: In the host list you can select up to 20 proxy computers from the list and set the IP and port manually or select the first proxy from the list automatically. Use one of the following options for Web settings: Enable a single connection per proxy: Disables the automatic web proxy for SocksChain so you can set up only one proxy per SocksChain using the host list. Default settings: This setting can be used to set the default proxy settings for all programs. IP proxy settings: This setting allows you to set the IP address of the proxy computer in the network, the port and the protocol. In this example: 128.109.49.46:1080, TCP and HTTP will be used. You can select only one of them. Automatic connection setup and easy browser launch The app automatically detects the browsers installed on your computer and enables you to launch them directly from the main window. While it is active every connection is routed through multiple proxy computers making it making it harder for a remote user to identify your real IP address. You do not have to manually create the connection since the programs deals with this task and only displays the computers that are used for hiding your real address. You are only connected to the first computer from the list that is connected to next one and so on. Background process for silent mode You can set SocksChain to run in the background and to route all the processes that require Internet access. This security measure can also be applied only for some applications such as the browser or the instant messaging client by selecting them from the main window of the program. From our tests the program seems to be successful in hiding your IP address from online IP tracking services. However, the Internet communication slows down significantly and websites take more time to load, a side-effect to be expected for this sort of products. In conclusion As a plus, it is a small application that has no impact on the computer performance during Internet browsing. You can use it if you want to hide your real location and if this information is more important than the Internet connection speed.
